"The earth, it is His garden fair,
The garden of the King;
Where flowers and little children share
His love for everything;
The whole wide world lies in His care,
Beneath His brooding wing;
The earth, it is His garden fair,
The garden of the King."
—Mrs. Crosby Adams.

To Miss Lulu G. McClure

There is always
A twinkle in eyes
'Neath the grey, but the heart
Twinkles greatest of all. She's made you
Forget that the first snow just fell or
That game you just knew you'd think on.
Her fairyland lives
In her prose or in rhyme;
Or it lives in her love of the great.
Even grammar shines forth in the life
That she gives it. Your mind does not stop
With the teacher before.
No,
Miss McClure is not known for the English
She gives,
Miss McClure, ever known for the English
She LIVES.

—Dorothy Jean Sandefer

To Alba

You write odes to lovely ladies,
On the success of a friend;
To your native land or state
Or the rights we all defend.

But you'll find all old Montreaters
Will in memory's book fair
Pen sonnets to the Alba
And their lusty schooldays there.

It was large and white and rambling,
And within its loving walls
Were wrapped old voices, old friends
Who haunted all the halls.

Here we all lined up
In hopes of letters marked "Free"
Or perhaps a chance package slip—
"You're sure it's not for me?"

Many and many are the times
Old Alba almost fell
When 400 stormed the stairway
To beat the hostess' bell!

After meals were over
Came the rush to see Miss Wade
Where you stood in line so long
Hopes of permission would all fade.

Down on the very front hall
Was Miss Ellis's abode
Where our beloved housemother
Graded papers, doctored, or sewed.

Mrs. Henderson was her suite mate
And never ceased to amaze us
With her knack of having tools
For whatever might faze us.

Mrs. Lanning, the dietitian,
With her love of making pies
Kept the big kitchen humming
Sometimes to our surprise.

Miss Lord and Miss Watkins, too,
Were "Albanians" from way back.
They were brave to face the noises
Which the Alba seemed never to lack.

I'll bet when the last day comes
And we meet at the Golden Gate,
St. Peter'll say, "The Alba?
I'm sorry you're too late.

You see when we gathered its ashes
And rebuilt it once more,
So many folks wanted in
We finally had to close the door.

But if no other place will suit you,
We'll take off the lock
And enlarge the whole dorm
Till it takes in an entire block.

There are only a few changes,
Pianos are out of commission
You'll have to practice on harps
But don't use them without permission!

So when all the "Montreat Girls"
Have gone clamoring through
I'll propose this same toast—
"To the Alba—we all loved you!"

—Barbara Stephenson

COLLEGE CLASSES

College Juniors

In 1916, in its first year, Montreat Normal School had twelve students and two graduates. And now, thirty years later, she is launching out as a four-year college. The first class under this new program is the Junior College Class which is small, too, having an enrollment of thirteen. Yet with a small beginning, now as in the past, we feel sure that she will grow and develop as a senior college as rapidly as she has as a junior college.
